Welcoming Wreaths

Wreaths made of greenery have been used since ancient Greece, symbolizing victory, strength and honor. Later, as people decorated their homes in winter with evergreen trees, they used the trimmed branches to weave a wreath, in an effort to reduce waste. Wreaths became a symbol of welcoming, as well as a sign of new life to come in the spring.

Basketball Is Born

Winter weather couldn't stop famous P.E. teacher James Naismith from keeping his students active. Instead, he created a game they could play indoors. With two peach baskets nailed at opposite ends of the gym, he gave them soccer balls to shoot, marking the birth of the world's "basket" ball craze on Dec. 1, 1891.

Jingle All the Way

The jolly sound of sleigh bells ringing is a sign that winter's on its way. Bells have long been placed on horse harnesses as good luck charms, and before cars were invented, sleigh bells signaled that a horse-drawn carriage was coming down the street. This was especially important when snowy paths softened the sound of the animals' hooves, linking the jingle of bells to the winter season.

From the Heart

"It isn't the size of the gift that matters, but the size of the heart that gives it." —Eileen Elias Freeman

Memorable Melody: 'Peppermint Twist'

In 1962, Joey Dee and the Starlites put a new twist on a dance craze with their cool tune "Peppermint Twist." Inspired by the fad created by Chubby Checker's smash song "The Twist," Dee and record producer Henry Glover wrote their own lively version, and named it after the Peppermint Lounge, the New York City nightclub where the band performed. With an infectious rhythm and dance steps such as "round and round, up and down" in the lyrics, the song had fans following the Starlites' lead.

Remember When: Red Pistachios

Snacking on pistachios used to leave folks seeing red—their red-stained fingers and lips. Before the 1980s, most of America's pistachio supply was imported from the Middle East, where the nuts were dyed bright red to cover blemishes caused during harvesting. Improved production methods eliminated the need for dyeing, and today, nearly all the pistachios sold in the U.S. are grown in California. Red pistachios can still be found as a novelty item, especially during the holidays.

In With the New

In America, New Year's Eve celebrations are a time for singing "Auld Lang Syne," watching the ball drop in Times Square, sharing a kiss at midnight, and eating black-eyed peas. But the rest of the world celebrates in many different ways:

Denmark. In this country, it's customary for pals to throw old plates and glasses at each other's front doors. A heaping pile of broken dishes on a home's doorstep is considered lucky, because it shows those inside have many friends.

Philippines. Filipinos wear polka-dotted clothing and eat round foods during their New Year festivities. The circular shapes represent coins and are meant to bring prosperity.

Spain. At midnight, people in Spain eat 12 grapes, one for each chime of the clock, to bring good luck for the coming year.

Japan. Among the many Japanese New Year's customs is osoji—a "big cleaning" of the entire house to prepare for a fresh beginning. Folks also eat long noodles, which represent a long and healthy life.

Hooked on Needlework

The cozy hobby of crafting with yarn is a favorite among all ages. Several factors weave together to make knitting and crocheting such enduring pastimes.

Any artistic endeavor results in a feeling of satisfaction when the project is complete. The same is true when somebody finishes knitting or crocheting a hat, scarf, blanket or other item. Being able to use their creation, or see someone else use and appreciate it, makes this happy glow even stronger.

But even while a project is still a work in progress, the benefits of knitting and crocheting are huge. Many yarn crafters say the process itself is a form of therapy that distracts them from anxious thoughts and bad habits, soothes irritability and stress, eases boredom and reduces insomnia. The repetitive motion of the needles and texture of the yarn results in a relaxing and meditative experience.

Those same movements help build and maintain strength in the hands, and the calming activity can lower blood pressure. Since stitching involves counting and concentration, it's also a brain booster, with studies showing the hobby may reduce the risk of dementia.

Knitting and crocheting are popular ways to give back to charity as well. Hospitals, veterans' organizations, homeless shelters and animal rescues are just some of the places that welcome gifts of woven items.
